A 1948 photo of St. Joe's without the college wing and the tower top was different. BELOW the courtyard after mass or Vespers, and then the well traversed trail to Maryknoll which still stands and is used as a retirement center for Maryknoll priests.

The faculty one or two years before we arrived in 1961. See how many you can identify. Below students visit between classes on the high school side of the building.

Fathers Bruce Atkensen, and Pete Calegari (in a very serious mood). After giving us some of his best years, Pierre died at the age most of us are now, 59, from throat cancer. He and other profs there not only taught us well then, but inspired us for a lifetime.

The Barn where the high school played basketball and broom hockey, the chapel in the college wing, and a room on the high school side.

High school single room.

Rudy Leonardi and Fr. Brian O'Kane in Physics class.

The Streakers: Buz, John, Bill, and Pat. Ernie on the drums?

Christmas caroling, another first for our class? and one of two study halls on the high school side.

Summus (Paul Page — but you knew that!) hitting 21ft. in the long jump. 17 Mar. '65. Marking the take-off: Rollo Lavelle (!) Randy Gorrige (!)

Joe Carroll caught Barile in 1962 setting the school record for Freshman Peanuts at 4'10" previously set in 1935. Paul Page beat him as a senior scissoring 6'4" to Joe's 5'10". Intramural sports was taken very seriously at St. Joe's Giving Rollo (Fr. Lavelle) a bad time about something with presenting sports awards. Dave Donovan, Pete Anderson, Pat McQuillan, Mike Schmidt, and Jim Veith. Rambler captain Paul Huvane and co captain Mike Huvane to the left while Paul sets another high school record. The sports teams were the Indians, Bears, Ramblers, and Trojans, and they competed year long for the first place totals.

Fr. Bill O'Keefe and cast in Tea House of the August Moon, our Senior Play while students celebrate "Latin Day" wearing togas with Fr. Paul Gregoire.

4th High class on the chapel steps before graduation. Still two more years of college there at St. Joseph's College.

40 out of 120 who entered in 1961 would graduate from the minor seminary in Cupertino and would go on to St. Patrick's in Menlo Park.
